Flash culture

There are only about 400 different last names of French origin in Quebec. The most common ones are Tremblay and Roy. Other common last names are: Gagnon, Gauthier, Charbonneau, Lalonde and Lapointe. The lack of diversity in last names is made up by the variety of first names, with some old-fashioned French ones like Ovide, Adélard or Delima. In Quebec, a child may often be given the mother's maiden name as a first name.

What are some common last names in your area?
What is the origin of your last name?

Adjective agreement

En anglais

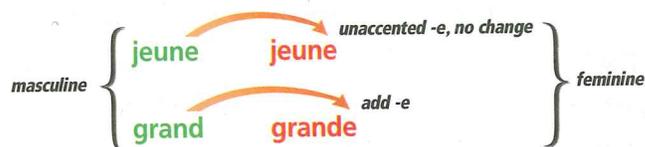

In English, adjectives usually come before the noun.

Sam is a kind man.

Does the spelling of an adjective in English change according to the noun it is describing?

In French, most adjectives are placed after the noun. There are a few exceptions that you will need to memorize.

- 1 Adjectives agree in number and gender with the nouns they describe. Unless an adjective already ends in an unaccented -e, to make most adjectives feminine, add -e to the masculine singular form.

- 2 To form the feminine of adjectives ending in -eux or -if, make the following spelling changes before adding -e.

sérieux → sérieuse

sportif → sportive

- 3 These adjectives have irregular feminine forms.

long → longue

gros → grosse

blanc → blanche

gentil → gentille

bon → bonne

mignon → mignonne

- 4 Adjectives come after the noun unless they describe beauty, age, goodness, or size.

before after
Martin est un bon ami et un étudiant sérieux.

- 5 Unless its singular form already ends in -s (gros), to make an adjective plural, add -s.

	MASCULINE	FEMININE
SINGULAR	intelligent	intelligente
PLURAL	intelligents	intelligentes

- 6 Des becomes de when the adjective comes before the noun.

Est-ce qu'il y a de jeunes professeurs dans ton école?

11 Mon ami Bruno

Lisons Complète le paragraphe avec la forme appropriée de chaque adjectif.

Mon ami Bruno n'est ni (grand / grande) ni (petit / petite). Comme moi (like me), il a les yeux (bleu / bleus). Nous sommes (brunes / bruns). Il est assez (marrant / marrante). Il n'est pas (timide / timides)! Bruno est super- (gentil / gentilles). C'est un très (bonne / bon) copain.

Le blason familial

The blason familial, or family coat of arms, is a symbol originally used to identify knights in combat. It began to appear in Europe in the eleventh century and became popular among the nobility during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. The official elements of a coat of arms are the motto, the crest, and the shield.

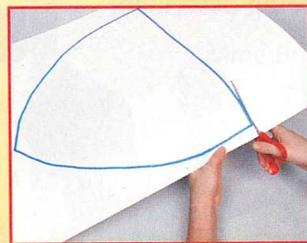

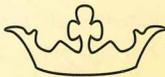

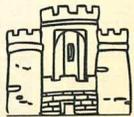

Ton blason

Materials:

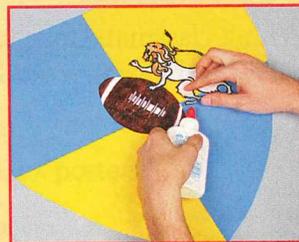

- poster board or heavy stock paper
- scissors
- pen or pencil
- crayons, markers, or colored pencils

Create your own blason! Before starting, think about your favorite subject, hobby, or sport. How would you illustrate it?

Step 1 Choose a shape for the shield and draw it on the poster board. Cut it out.

Step 2 Choose colors for the background.

Step 3 Pick a symbol that would best illustrate your favorite subject, hobby, or sport. Place it in the middle of your shield.

Step 4 Pick one or two other symbols to go on either side of the shield.

Step 5 Choose a crest to go at the top of the shield.

Step 6 Create a motto of three words in French that describes who you are. Place it at the bottom of the shield.

Recherches

Research the coat of arms of the following French royal families: the Capets, the Valois, and the Bourbons. Do these coat of arms have something in common? What is it? Why?

Comparaisons

Les courses en famille

If you stay with a French family, you'll notice that children usually have dinner every evening with their parents. Except for the goûter, they don't eat between meals. The family will most likely have dinner in the dining room. Some families might watch the 8 o'clock news together while eating dinner around the dinner table. Boys and girls help with grocery shopping, meal preparation, cooking, and setting or clearing the table. French teenagers rarely have parties at home; they meet their friends at a café or at a movie theatre. They usually go out on Wednesday afternoons, since school ends early that day, and on Saturday nights. Sunday is often spent with the family.

En famille

Imagine you're an exchange student staying with a French family. Which of the following would you expect to do:

- help yourself to the fridge and be able to snack whenever you like?
- eat dinner in front of any one of the three TV sets?
- spend Sunday with your family?

ET TOI?

1. Do you always have lunch or dinner with your family?

2. Do American students usually go out on Wednesdays and on Saturdays?

Communauté

Your city's coat of arms

Do you know if your city has a coat of arms? If so, what are the symbols and why were they chosen? What do they mean? You may find some information at the town hall of your city. Then, you may also go to your neighborhood library or on the Internet to do some research on your family's name and see if it has ever been associated with a coat of arms.

Un blason familial

Grammaire 1

- the verb être
- adjective agreement

Un peu plus

- more irregular adjectives
- pp. 82–87

Résumé: Grammaire 1

The verb être is irregular.

être (to be)
je suis	nous sommes
tu es	vous êtes
il/elle/on est	ils/elles sont

Adjectives agree in number and gender with the nouns they describe. To make most adjectives feminine, add -e to the masculine form. To make most adjectives plural, add -s to the singular form.

Some adjectives have irregular feminine forms:

blanc (blanche), bon (bonne), gentil (gentille), gros (grosse), mignon (mignonne), long (longue)

Adjectives that end in -eux become -euse in the feminine forms. Adjectives that end in -if become -ive in the feminine forms.

Some adjectives like cool, chic, orange, and marron are invariable. They never change forms.

The adjectives beau (beautiful), nouveau (new), and vieux (old) have special forms.

Grammaire 2

- possessive adjectives
- contractions with de

Un peu plus

- c'est versus il/elle est
- pp. 94–99

Résumé: Grammaire 2

French possessive adjectives agree in gender and number with what is possessed.

They are: mon, ton, son, ma, ta, sa, mes, tes, ses, notre, votre, leur, nos, vos, leurs

Contractions with de: de + le = du de + les = des

When de appears before la or l', there is no contraction.

Use c'est with a person's name, with an article plus a noun, with an article, plus a noun, plus an adjective.

Use il est/elle est with an adjective by itself.

Lettres et sons

The r sound

The French r is quite different from the American r. To pronounce the French r, keep the tip of your tongue pressed against your lower front teeth. Arch the back of your tongue upward, almost totally blocking the passage of air in the back of your throat.
